

settling for Bluebell Hill, which is the first lump on your right, about a ¼ mile ahead. Just past the little hill, turn right off the main path, next to the river. Notice the slim bridge – a bit too narrow for a really satisfying game of Pooh-sticks...there's a better one later. Most people will keep turning right, on this path that may be a bit puddly/muddy, but if you wish you can follow the line of the river for longer if you follow an even narrower path just ahead (that's probably a bit puddlier and muddier) around to the left. It'll re-join the obvious path near the Pooh-sticks bridge.

Twisty Trees by Leanne Davidson

After your game, cross the bridge and walk the length of the duckpond to a junction. Here, going right takes you back to the main path, where you go left, retracing your steps to your car. Going left, up a path that's rough, and always shady, will take those who chose Start 1 directly back to their chariot. If you used Start 2, when you reach the bridge turn right, across it, and along the roadway to the car park.

Can you spot other unusual trees in the Dell?

REFRESHMENTS Healey Dell Tea Rooms are down in the Dell – further than you've just done, and uphill after eating. To drive there, go right at the top of Station Road, then right at Healey Corner down narrow, bendy Dell Road, which is very pitted beyond the cottages. Corner shop at top of Station Road

POSSIBLE WALK EXTENSIONS

The Fairy Chapel is very close and signposted down steps from Station Road (but the tricky steps down from that path need real care).

Healey Dell viaduct is 300m south of Station Rd ramp.

The snack bar is 300m up from the narrow bridge. JF
